

DEAR Challenge 4: At the Beginning!

You can't judge a book by its cover BUT can you judge it by its opening line?

Test yourself. Can you match the 10 opening lines to the novel.

The first 3 correct answers will win a Chapter's Gift Certificate.

Drop your answers off in the library to: Mrs. Hall, Mr. Kopyto, Ms. Phillips or Ms. Antoniou

OPENING LINES:

1. A merry little surge of electricity piped by automatic alarm from the mood organ beside his bed awakened Rick Deckard.
2. We march.
3. No one would have believed in the last years of the nineteenth century that this world was being watched keenly and closely by intelligences greater than man's and yet as mortal as his own; that as men busied themselves about their various concerns they were scrutinised and studied, perhaps almost as narrowly as a man with a microscope might scrutinise the transient creatures that swarm and multiply in a drop of water.
4. I'd never given much thought to how I would die--though I'd had reason enough in the last few months--but even if I had, I would not have imagined it like this.
5. It is a sad and shocking fact of my young life that my parents named me Mary Elizabeth Cep by mistake.
6. There was no lake at Camp Green Lake.
7. Call me Ishmael.
8. I looked at my notes and I didn't like them. I'd spent three days at U.S. Robots and might as well have spent them at home with the Encyclopaedia Tellurica.
9. Once upon a time, there lived a fox spirit with nine tails.
10. If you are interested in stories with happy endings, you would be better off reading some other book.
